When “In a Minute” Turns Into Tomorrow

The invitation is small. “Come see this.” So is the disappointment when the moment disappears. Pick the reply you can mean.

I have a minute now

> “Show me. What am I looking at?”

Pause what you’re doing long enough to hear why it caught their eye.

For a more in-depth look at how to build trust and connection in your relationship, explore Building Trust and Connection, my 10-week, self-paced course.

© 2026 Dr. Katherine Jewett, PsyD, LMFT • Time to Thrive Therapy

When “In a Minute” Turns Into Tomorrow

I want to, and I’m busy

> “I want to see it. Can I finish this call and come find you in ten?”

Choose a time you can keep. Set your own reminder if you need one.

For a more in-depth look at how to build trust and connection in your relationship, explore Building Trust and Connection, my 10-week, self-paced course.

© 2026 Dr. Katherine Jewett, PsyD, LMFT • Time to Thrive Therapy

When “In a Minute” Turns Into Tomorrow

I missed my chance

> “I said ten minutes and then I forgot. I’m sorry. Do you still feel like showing me?”

Let them say yes, later, or that the moment has passed.

The return line is yours to say: “Okay, I’m here. Show me.”

For a more in-depth look at how to build trust and connection in your relationship, explore Building Trust and Connection, my 10-week, self-paced course.

© 2026 Dr. Katherine Jewett, PsyD, LMFT • Time to Thrive Therapy